Brimhall Foods has officially completed a $6 million renovation and expansion of its Bartlett facility. The expansion, which will increase the company's popcorn and corn snack production capabilities, will also create 30 new jobs in the area.

“The concept for the new production lines started several years ago to improve efficiencies and capacity,” said Michael Patrick, general manager of Brimhall Foods. “We feel very blessed and are excited to see this project come to fruition.”

Brimhall began construction on the expansion last fall. The project was financed by Renasant Bank.

“We were out of space in these departments before and are very happy with the larger area and the new equipment,” said Nick Brimhall, assistant plant manager.

Brimhall Foods was founded by Terry and Becki Brimhall in 1982 as a producer of Brim's brand pork rinds. The company has been in the Bartlett location since 1987. The company currently employs 150 people and distributes snacks in most of the U.S. and overseas.
